Mine Entry

- ✕ Adit
- ✕ Gutter Pit
- ✕ Shaft

The Coal Authority has records of over 175,000 mine entries within the UK captured in the National Coal Mining database, derived from sources including abandonment plans, geological and topographical plans.

Coal mining activity is recorded as far back as the 13th century, but prior to 1872 there was no requirement to deposit abandonment plans. It is therefore believed there may be many unrecorded mine entries of which the Authority has no information or knowledge. These entries do not, therefore, appear within the Authority's national dataset as shown on this map.

This map displays nearby official conservation areas. Every local authority in England has at least one conservation area. Most are designated by the Council as the local planning authority, though Historic England and the Secretary of State also have the power to create them.

Testimonial 1

We cannot thank Lawler's enough, in particular Claire. Our house move has been quite a journey but throughout the process Claire has been amazing. She has kept up communication, pushed on our behalf and always worked in our best interests. I would highly recommend them as without them I firmly believe we would not be in our dream home.

Testimonial 2

We recently sold our home through Lawler and Co. and were very happy with the service provided. Nothing was too much trouble for them. We mainly dealt with Angela and Clare who were both friendly, helpful and extremely knowledgeable of the market. As a company we found them to be extremely professional, for example always keeping us updated of where the sale was up to and ensuring everything ran as smooth as possible. I would not hesitate in recommending..

Testimonial 3

When our mother moved into a care home from a house that she had lived in for 67 years, my sister and I approached the task of selling the house with a high degree of trepidation. To complicate matters, neither of us lived locally, with each of us having a journey of approximately 3 hours to reach the house. However, from the moment that we contacted the Lawler and Co Poynton office we were greatly impressed and our fears receded...

Testimonial 4

From start to finish excellent service. I bought my first house from them a couple of years ago and they were my first call when I decided to sell and relocate this year. Both my original purchase, my current sale and purchase were handled with professionalism and caring. All of my interactions with Lawlers and specifically Clare have been perfect...
